Vision 2015: Great Schools for All Delaware Kids

Delaware is making good progress in improving student achievement in our public schools.

But ...Did you know that only 6 of 10 Delaware public school students finish high school in four years...and that Delaware ranks only 27th in the United States in reading and math, according to the National Assessment of Educational Progress?

Despite recent progress, that's not good enough. Our children deserve more.

Please help us make sure that each and every Delaware child gets the education he or she needs to succeed in life.

Recently, Governor Minner in her State of the State address joined educators, business, leaders and parents in supporting a bold plan to improve our schools—Vision 2015. The plan, the result of an 11-month research effort by a broad-based group of Delaware leaders, calls for improvements in everything from our curriculum to how we recruit and support our teachers and principals.
